The Fighters

Criminal defense attorneys Anthony J. Falangetti and Joseph A. Weimortz Jr. both served for more than a decade as deputy district attorneys of Los Angeles County, prosecuting hundreds of hardcore cases involving gangs, homicide, sex crimes, assault, robbery and narcotics. Now, they bring that experience to the other side, defending everything from DUIs to homicide.

Recognized on the Southern California Super Lawyers list for their expertise, Falangetti and Weimortz have successfully defended a number of high profile sex offenses and white collar cases. "The criminal justice system strips away someone's humanity, taking away all they ever were, and all they'll ever be," states Falangetti. "We fight to restore our client's humanity, their freedom and their hope."

"The U.S. Constitution and our liberty are constantly being challenged," Weimortz says. "We are out there defending our rights, fighting to protect the innocent. For the accused, we are liberty's last line of defense."
